

Top

Mistakes

I made as an early Entrepreneur

So you can avoid them

Prasanth Babu D

@promark_innovate

1. Going solo:

Trying to handle
everything alone

Trying to handle
everything alone can lead to burnout and poor decision-making.
Delegating tasks and building a team is crucial.

2. Not networking

With fellow entrepreneurs

I underestimated the value of peer connections. Networking opens doors for collaboration, mentorship, and faster problem-solving.

3.Unaware of startup resources government initiatives and support programs

I missed out on valuable schemes and resources designed for startups. Awareness of these programs could have saved me both time and money.

4. Not creating content

nor engaging with the community

I wasn't active on social media or consistent in building visibility. This cost me opportunities to connect, build trust, and grow my brand early.

5. Not focusing on cash flow early revenue matters

In the beginning, I focused on ideas and growth but overlooked cash flow. It's the lifeline of any business, and without managing it, even great ideas can collapse.

End of the post !

thanks for your attention

Prasanth Babu D

FOUNDER & CEO OF PROMARK INNOVATE

These are my experiences, and I've added the corrections to myself

Feel free to correct me or suggest me something in comments

Appreciate your time! Follow me for more insights and updates.....

@promark_innovate